

Their Future...

is in Your Hands TODAY!

ASPIRA, Inc. of New Jersey

It all began in 1968 when a group of Hispanic educators and community leaders saw the need to alleviate the alarming dropout rate among Puerto Ricans in the state.

Since then, ASPIRA has grown tremendously from a small organization serving students from the Greater Newark area in 1985, to a statewide agency serving students from seventeen high schools throughout the Camden, Hudson, Essex, Passaic and Mercer counties in 1990. Last year alone ASPIRA served 2,798 students.

Now ASPIRA is undertaking its greatest challenge - a $1.5 million capital campaign to purchase a building for its headquarters and classrooms.

Our Greatest Challenge Yet

After several relocations, due to the constant demand for additional space and the escalating rents in Newark, ASPIRA's Board of Directors came to the conclusion that the time had come to launch a capital campaign to purchase a home for the organization. In 1989, after much planning and consultation, ASPIRA relocated its offices to a building at 390 Broad Street in Newark with an option to buy.

The building at 390 Broad Street is an ideal home for ASPIRA, and a wise investment in its future and that of the community it serves. It is centrally located in Newark's business district, accessible to the highway and mass transit while remaining a convenient location to the schools ASPIRA works with and the Hispanic community.

A Vision To Be Shared By All...

The ASPIRA building will provide a viable and lasting resource to the Greater Newark Hispanic community. Students will be able to use the facility for after school activities. Parents will not have to travel far to seek guidance from counselors, or to attend workshops and activities with their children. Community organizations will be able to hold meetings at the site, thus fostering collaboration with ASPIRA on projects and issues of common concern.
